My name is Tom Krenzke, and I serve as Reference and Instruction Librarian in Link Library at Concordia University, Nebraska. This video is a convenient way to introduce myself to you, the students I serve at CUNE.

After growing up in Indiana and Wisconsin, I graduated from Valparaiso University with a major in elementary education, and received Lutheran Teaching Ministry certification through the CUNE colloquy program; I also studied at the University of Wisconsin, the International Linguistics Center, the University of Texas at Arlington, and the College of DuPage.

I came to CUNE in 2004 after serving in libraries in Illinois and Wisconsin. I’m married to my lovely wife Bernita, and we’re blessed with two daughters, two sons-in-law, and four grandchildren. I enjoy walking, hiking, camping, and reading.

The most interesting part of my job as Reference and Instruction Librarian is supporting undergraduate, degree completion, and graduate student learning. I enjoy working together with students to determine what information they need, where it might be found, how to search for it, and how to evaluate it, and I enjoy creating tools to help teach these skills. In other words, I have opportunities to interact with others across a wide spectrum of backgrounds, needs, and interests.

One of my favorite things about CUNE is seeing the variety of talents God has given students, faculty, and staff. It’s encouraging to witness His people discovering and growing in ways they can, by His grace, joyfully live out their faith in Him.

In conclusion, find my contact information at http://www.cune.edu/librarystaff, and find help at http://cune.libguides.com/ or ‘Research help.’ Thanks for the opportunity to work together!