This screencast demonstrates how to find a persistent link in the CUNE online database Films on Demand. From the CUNE library page at http://www.cune.edu/library, click on articles and databases resources, then scroll to Films on Demand.

Search by film or segment title for the item you want others to view. Advanced search is also available.

Do not use the URL in the browser navigation window – this won’t work. Instead, look for the title URL or segment URL below the viewing screen and description.

Notice that you’ll see the prefix for the CUNE server http://vproxy.cune.edu/login?url= already added to the beginning of any URLs from the CUNE subscription to Films on Demand. This is also true for segment URLs.

Being careful to select the entire URL, copy and paste it to a secure location where others will access it.

Finally, test the link to be sure it works.

View the tutorial showing this and other ways to post URLs from Films on Demand, including subjects, series, or playlists, at http://www.cune.edu/librarydatabases > Films on Demand > Help http://digital.films.com/ONDHelp.aspx > How to tips > Sharing videos > Using permalinks.